

Volunteer Opportunity

Our friends at Company Wrench have spearheaded an important project after becoming aware of a problem while working on Community Care Day. While cleaning out a shed at the homeless shelter, they found dozens of broken down bikes. Why? Biking is the primary mode of transportation for the majority of the clients. Most do not have vehicles. When a bike breaks down, it can be devastating.

Brad Hutchinson had an idea, an idea that has exploded beyond his expectations. Why not ask local scrappers, families, businesses and community members to donate old bikes and then bring the community together to wash and repair them before distributing them to the underserved population within the community.

The response has been so huge that they are in need of volunteers of any skill level to come and help them work on the hundreds of bicycles that they have received.

Company Wrench invites you to join them on Saturday, October 25th to help clean, repair, and test ride bikes here at CW shop. They are graciously providing lunch and kids are welcome if they can help.
